DON'T MISS Wednesday, April 3rd
Film Club night with delicious
Thai food from Pon's kitchen

The Coen brothers have an ear for language, and, channelling the opaque mysteries of Raymond Chandler, they throw LA resident bum and Bowling aficionado Jeff "The Dude" Lebowski into a strange triple-crossing case of kidnapping, ransoms, nihilists and urinated-upon rugs. It is the equivalent of hurling unrelenting forces at an immovable object; the Dude's bemused stoicism at constant odds with the world around him. He'd much rather be bowling with crazed Vietnam Vet Walter and pure silent soul Donnie.

Cinematographer Roger Deakins paints an alluring canvas, of this insanely funny movie, with wonderfully idiosyncratic characters, down to the smallest part. Who better than the Coens to reinvent the comedy of errors?

The Big Lebowski is one of the greatest achievements in modern cinema and if you can't see that, grab a White Russian, hit the bowling alley, and find your inner-Dude as soon as possible. See You There!
